EXCELLENCE IN OFFICIAL COMMUNICATION

Having good communication skills is one of the most important parts of social skills, it includes the ability to dialogue, to express oneself orally, to moderate, and to argue communication is a trainable skill that requires systematic practice and learning certain techniques. Excellence is a difficult and potentially controversial topic that the team handles. We have benefited from consistent and steadfast backing from the European association of communication. Several individuals have been invaluable to the project.

Official communication is a critical aspect. It is important to understand the communication process so that we can enhance the effectiveness of our messages top our supervisors, colleagues, external stake holders and including friends and relatives, It is essential that we use a variety of communication techniques to both understand and be understood.

The Importance of Communication Skills

Communication has always been one of the relevant variables influencing the teaching-learning process. Results have indicated that referential and conversational communication skills are considered to be the most significant for the teaching activity and that there are significant links between academic performance and students' degree of involvement in interpersonal interactions with their teachers. The regression model has shown that the teacher's use of regulatory and referential communication skills explains a significant amount of the variance in the academic performance, the students' interaction involvement with their teachers providing a further explanation for the performance achieved by students.

Before the exchange of information takes place, there must be a capability to streamline and disentangle thoughts, ideas, and notions before they are spoken. Understanding the purpose of communication goes beyond being fluent in a language or having impeccable grammar. This involves giving them structure and working on articulation, reasoning, and deduction to simplify and clarify thoughts within so that they are relayed most effectively.

The FDP was started on 20th may 2019 with the welcome note by the Convener. The Resource person was welcomed by the Principal, Dr. K.Chandrasekhar Reddy. The Principal gave keynote Address towards the Participants. The first technical session was on basics of Dassault Systems 3D experience, the Resource Person was Mr.K. Anel kumar, Executive Design engineer, APSSDC. He discussed the use of Dassault Systems 3D Experience.

Today's Life Sciences industry is facing major challenges like patent expirations and low R&D productivity, increasing competition globally and decreasing margins, as well as non-optimized processes and compliance pressure. This results in cost pressure and long cycle times.

ONE Lab industry solution experience integrates people, resources, processes, data and interfaces for improved efficiency and collaboration. ONE Lab provides a standard understanding and usage of laboratory equipment, materials and procedure steps as well as a unified role-based user experience for the lab. It reduces redundant work and provides faster insight to get to the desired outcome. And it allows for better understanding of the processes and data, providing knowledge to be used empirically or to build and refine models that can be used for future laboratory experimentation and testing. Uniform and complete adherence to scientifically developed processes is necessary for transitions from research to development to commercialization. Integrating laboratory capabilities and applications through a "laboratory" aware
